MARRIED.

WALTON WARE.—At the residence of Mr. C. W. Ware, Trenton, Ky., Thursday, November 8th, 1883, Mr. Frank Walton, of Hadenville, Ky., to Miss Charley Ware. There were four couples of attendants. The ceremony was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Lockett, of Trenton. The newly wedded couple have our warmest congratulations.

Shooting at Petersburg.

A correspondent at Petersburg, Ky., sends us the following account of a shooting there Oct. 30:

Tom Bridges shot Bud Dorsey in the hip. The ball ranged upward and the doctors think there is no chance for his recovery. The weapon was a Bull Dog pistol No. 33. The shooting was accidental.

PROBABLY MURDERED.

Mysterious Disappearance of a Christian County Young Man.

The following letter was received by Assessor McDonald a few days ago:

Assessor, Christian County, Ky.:
DEAR SIR:—A young man, by name John C. White, a native of your county, disappeared mysteriously from this section about a year ago. He has many friends here, and they are under the impression that he was murdered for his money, as at the time he was last seen in Palo Alto county, this State, he had about $3,000 with him. Don't know his father's name, but if you can give us any information of him—at any time during the past year—you will confer a favor that will be appreciated, and reduplicated, should opportunity ever present itself.

Yours truly,

N. L. Bartholomew.

The letter was written upon a letter-head of the Hanger Cattle Co., Fort Griffin, Texas, of which the writer was secretary and treasurer, and was dated October 16, 1883. Do any of our readers know anything about young White? In 1880, J. C. White was a subscriber to the SEMI-WEEKLY SOUTH KENTUCKIAN, at this post-office, but whether or not it was the same man we are unable to say. We will be glad to publish any information on the subject.

The attention of farmers is called to the fact that McCamy, Honts & Co. are special agents for a barbed wire Co. The wire is galvanized and runs 15 and 17 feet to the pound. Large discounts are offered. Call and see them.

HERE AND THERE.

W. F. Patton, Life Insurance.
Old Santa Claus' headquarters at Wilson & Galbreath's.

New subscribers are constantly coming in. The semi-weekly is sweetly booming.

The largest line of holiday goods and toys in the city can be found at Wilson & Galbreath's.

Rev. B. F. Orr, of the Methodist church, is carrying on a protracted meeting at Fairview.

The protracted meeting at Locust Grove Baptist church closed the first of the week.

The art show last night was postponed and will be held to-night, tomorrow night and Monday night.

Dr. E. B. Cook sustained a painful injury by accidentally sticking a tobacco stick in his right eye Tuesday.

Messrs. L. T. Gaines & Co. have sold out their bar at the Phoenix Hotel and contemplate opening another elsewhere.

Advertisers, remember we give you double the amount of advertising you get in weekly newspapers at the same price.

We have already received 15 new subscriptions to our Semi-Weekly, although it is only three days old. Who says it will not be a success?

Eld. Gant, of Elton, preached at the Christian church last Sunday, and is in the city this week taking pledges for the Home Mission work.

Judge Joe McCarrill has moved his law office up stairs in the McDaniel building, on the corner of Main and Court streets.

The SEMI-WEEKLY SOUTH KENTUCKIAN starts out with the largest list of paid up subscribers of any newspaper published in Western Kentucky.

We give to-day a partial list of the prizes to be awarded at our next drawing. The list when completed will be the best we have ever arranged.

All of the trees on Main street, the old landmarks, are being wonderfully improved by a new layer of metal.

We called on Jns. Pye & Co. this morning. We found their desk covered with samples of suitings, which they were sending to Melanville, N. C., Nashville, Tenn., Louisville, Ky., and other cities in response to letters of request for same.

While on his way to the Lutheran Synod in middle Tennessee, Rev. F. L. Braun had his satchel broken open and robbed in the car while the train was stopping at Guthrie, and sustained quite a heavy loss. Quite a number of such robberies have been committed there recently.

Main and Virginia streets are being re-metled in the business part of the city. The wide gutters are being taken up and very narrow ones put down, making much more room. The idea is a good one, and, under the supervision of Mr. John A. Twyman, the work is being pushed ahead rapidly.

The most shocking accident that has happened here for quite a while occurred this week. A colored boy by the name of John Paskell attempted to jump on to an empty coal car and was thrown under it, and eleven cars and engine ran over him, cutting off both legs, one arm and the top of his head, and, in fact, cutting him all to pieces. The railroad company had the remains gathered up and dressed as well as they could be, and sent to Hopkinsville, where his mother resides. Coroner Earl was sent for, and an inquest held, and a verdict rendered by the jury exonerating the railroad company from all blame, and that the deceased came to his death by his own carelessness.—[Bartington Correspondence Madisonville Times.

A prominent farmer crossed the street this week to congratulate us upon starting a semi-weekly. "It is just what Hopkinsville ought to have had long ago," he remarked. "Farmers want the news often than once a week and the result has been that they have had to take two papers to get the news, when a semi-weekly would have saved them half the money invested. You have my best wishes, and I believe your enterprise will succeed. Intelligent people know a good thing when they see it, and you will find out that the SEMI-WEEKLY SOUTH KENTUCKIAN will continue to increase in popularity as long as you keep it up to its present standard of excellence." With a face suffused with blushes, we tried to thank him for his encouraging words, but found we were too full for utterance.

Dropped Dead.

An old negro man named Henry Gillum dropped dead of heart disease near the Fair Grounds Wednesday night. He was at the house of one of his neighbors and had been complaining that his head hurt him. He finally got up and started home and was found the next morning near the fence where he had fallen dead. An inquest was held and a verdict rendered in accordance with the above facts.

Grangers Vs. Warehousemen.

All of Their Tobacco to Go to the Louisville Market.

There are two flourishing Granges in Christian county, one located at Church Hill and the other at Casky. The two number about two hundred of the most prominent and substantial farmers of the county.

For the last five years it has been the custom of the Grangers to arrange to consign their tobacco all together to one warehouse, and the warehousemen have given them a rebate. This arrangement was made by letting the contract to the lowest bidder, and, as the Grangers' tobacco ranged all the way from 500 to 1,000 hogheads a year, it was a big thing.

Messrs. Hucker & Woodbridge secured the contract for three years, and Messrs. Gant & Sons had it for 1881 and 1882. The bidding, of course, became more animated from year to year, and in 1882 the Messrs. Gant obligated themselves to give a rebate of $1.65 from the regular rate of $2.50 per hoghead. Under this arrangement they received 790 hogheads, making a saving of $1,203.50 to the Grangers.

Last summer, the Board of Trade, composed of the tobacco buyers and warehousemen, held a meeting and decided that all of the warehousemen must obligate themselves not to offer the Grangers any rebate whatever. The grounds for this were, that it kept the warehousemen from having a uniform rate, and outsiders demanded the same rates on the score of personal friendship, large crops, etc., and thereby caused endless annoyance. The warehousemen claimed that farmers who had twenty or more hogheads to sell would threaten to join the Grange and save $35 or $40 if they were not given a reduced rate.

The decision of the Board of Trade was communicated to the Grangers and they at once rose up in arms, so to speak, and declared they would not pay full rates. A formal demand for a rebate was made which was promptly declined.

The Grangers then held a consultation, and decided to make a proposition to a Louisville warehouse, Dr. J. D. Clardy was appointed by Church Hill Grange and Mr. Winston Henry by Casky Grange to act as agents in the matter. After some preliminary correspondence, Mr. J. S. Phelps, representing one of the Louisville warehouses, came to this city and the arrangement was made, the tobacco to be sold for $1.50 and one per cent commission. The freight rate to Louisville will be $1.00 on the hundred. It is estimated that there will be about 400 hogheads, or about 650,000 pounds of tobacco.

We have talked with several of the Grangers and they say they were working for a principle of their order and not so much for the amount of the rebate. One of them told us that they would have accepted a rebate of 25 cents, but were determined not to be defied and forced to abandon one of the objects of their order. The warehousemen see the Grangers will lose money. They will have to pay between $5 and $6 freight per hoghead and will get but $1.00 rebate. Their tobacco will be broken and put on the market by strangers 200 miles away, and they predict that the Grangers will be tired of their contract after a few trials. The Grangers, however, say they are able to take care of themselves and will do so. They have arranged to get all the money they may want advanced on their tobacco for 8 per cent.

While we regret to see so much tobacco sent away from our home market, it is not our province to take sides in the matter. We merely submit a plain statement of the facts and leave the reader to form his own conclusion as to which side is in the right.

Art Entertainment.

Tremaine's Art Show has been on the boards at the Opera House all this week and will be till Monday night. The entertainments have been given to crowded houses, night after night, which fact is alone enough to attest their merit. To-night and to-morrow night the programmes will be exceedingly interesting and those who have not attended should not fail to embrace the last opportunities. The admission price is only 25 cents for reserved seats. A grand matinee will be given Saturday afternoon.

Rich. Campbell, a well known colored man, died in this city Tuesday night and was buried Wednesday with distinguished honors by the U. B. F. Lodge, of which he was a member.

Mr. Isaac Wolf, a prominent Jewish merchant, and one of the wealthiest citizens of Louisville, died last week aged 65 years. He was a member of the mammoth clothing house of Kahn, Wolf & Sons. Mr. Wolf was born in Bavaria and began life in America in 1836 as a peddler of notions. About the year of 1850 he clerked in a grocery store owned by a man named Mettill, in this city and went to Louisville from this city in 1851.
